LEXICON SPEAKS AT 2008 ESS USERS MEETING

HOUSTON, TEXAS. Lexicon Systems, LLC President, CEO and founder Jill Barson Gilbert made a presentation to a packed house at ESS EXPO.08, the international user meeting of independent software vendor ESS. Gilbert spoke on the use of software to manage environment, health & safety (EHS) performance with the framework of enterprise governance, risk & compliance (GRC).

“GRC is not just about technology, Sarbanes-Oxley or Enterprise Risk Management,” Gilbert said in her presentation. “GRC is a business philosophy that provides oversight, processes and culture; a holistic, integrated framework that impacts all members of the organization, from Board-level to EHS, security and quality; and enterprise-wide collaboration to achieve sustainability, consistency, efficiency and transparency.”

“EHS performance management is a priority as businesses need to translate GRC strategy into action. Performance management software collects and aggregates data from throughout the enterprise, transforming information into useful knowledge. This type of software allows businesses to compare progress against Key Performance Indicators, streamline decision-making and drive business improvements.”
