

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

2 January 2013

LEXICON SYSTEMS, LLC ROLLS OUT NEW WEB SITE

HOUSTON, TEXAS. Lexicon Systems, LLC is pleased to roll out its updated Web site. The Web site, lexicon-systems.com, offers a fresh new design and easy navigation that allows visitors to quickly find information on the company and its services, as well as dozens of articles. The site's new Opinion page provides access to a collection of knowledge on the nexus of environment, health & safety (EHS), sustainability and information technology (IT). As social networking is critical to keeping up-to-date with rapidly changing, the Opinion page also links to the new Lexicon blog, established in 2012.

Lexicon founder, president & CEO Jill Barson Gilbert said, "I am excited about the new look, and even more excited that our Web site ties to the Lexicon blog. The blog allows us to report in timely, short bursts on important issues and developments."

ABOUT LEXICON SYSTEMS, LLC

Lexicon Systems, LLC is an established management consulting firm that helps companies to address complex issues, with a primary focus in the EHS management information systems market. The firm helps to move businesses ahead with senior staff that understand industry and its issues, and arrive at solutions thoughtfully and quickly.

Lexicon consultants are independent and objective and put client interests first. The firm offers the breadth and depth of experience of a large firm with the responsiveness of a small firm. Lexicon Systems, LLC is a preferred provider to EHS and IT senior management in industry, as well as C-level executives in software and investment firms.

For information, call +1 281.280.8106, email info@lexicon-systems.com or visit lexicon-systems.com.

moving > business > aheadsm